Any short statement does not do justice to such a scholarly work. Lanza proposes a biocentrist theory which ascribes the answer to the observer rather than the observed. Lanza's theories [are] certainly worth debate." — Houston Chronicle 's Eric Berger, SciGuy blog "What makes this book both interesting and worth the effort of reading it, is the unique perspective Lanza brings to the subject matter as a physician. His article demands an answer to the question of whether scientists have exhausted all possible tools for studying nature. He is adjunct professor of astronomy at Marymount College, and writes and produces a weekly show on Northeast Public Radio, aired during NPR's Weekend Edition. A book that expands upon this unique approach is warranted, not only to alert society, but to call on it to test this novel new hypothesis." —Günther Kletetschka is a geophysicist at the NASA Goddard Space Flight Center.
